Ann Marie Wolpe:

THINGS TO DO

A
B
PRIORITIES

Michael Palmon: how the Brits squeezed the people in the country side - very sophisticated added surplus value: capitalist system - [saves Samuel Johnson]

Sitay Wolpe must be seen in context

- 1) - the liberal interpretation - to HCU connected racial/exploitation. 2) 1987 - w.c. a yr before 1973 strikes. BC, SACTU, 3) Fanon 2) Dis school (defending) 3) Dakar Dec 4) A white argument - for palmon's reproduction, white bread, negrony.

Critique - 1) fractions of capital 2) functionalism 3) African resistance 4) Mafye - mode of production 5) race/class 6) Mandini - destruction.

Enduring contribution

- 1) prior relations - w/o we don't understand the present the black working class - has a history

Wolpe - how capitalism developed in south Africa

- & how that affects the present

- 2) South Industrially - what is the reality? - we haven't provided an analysis

What are we in a "system" now - are we are not in a "functioning" system -

Notes:

a transitory period. and this is the beginning of the collapse of the composite bond

corporatist techno-capitalleading but RDI?

- 28/2: ~~Simon~~ Lubna - legacy of medieval history history of labour markets: exclusive economic enclaves: has been my focus into this - early racial constructions - "coole" / "kaffir" naturalised discourse of race:
 Mongolani - articulation of labour prob.
 Indian - indentured free passenger.
 Racialised identifications: Seduced by into a better way of life - not by the more slavery conditions - primary produce for the master countries
 - treated better, plantations. Labour unable to dislodge - white domination.
 Indian - imported identity - coole - (unfortunately) / grunge, tribal, ethnic racial sub-categories.
 (forbade) / improve to mediate class
 What is the legacy? no race - so no coole worker? but wasn't impacted on poverty - racial - ineffectual

This illustrated presentation explores the contestation between the photographer and the developing contribution between the photographer and the photographer's subject over control of image. Two of a number of projects are presented - as the colonisers perpetuate western fragmentation of the self, and the colonised succeed, fail, and succeed, all over as changing visual technology advances, and how the transform their projects.

John Compton editor of The Witness suggested that I write the articles on which this book is based.
 While this was being done he gave me encouragement and support in what was a real project for all of us. His staff on the Witness are of great assistance. But I just mention Fred Gots and Regie Kluender especially. Gabby for inspiration, baby pictures very sissy Vullu Hainto and Dave Kotze as always, me and John Wengas join on this project. The staff at the Crupell Collection welcomed me as a Research Fellow and was pleased to find me in the very request. The library of Kwana Zulu in its support by making allow me to do research. Fellow in the Crupell Collection would be helpful.

The tax fell most heavily on the natives whose lives were already feeling the impact of the increasing prices, inflation, rents, evictions and the disruption of the migrant labor system, now coming to an end. The South African war was over: the new, liberalized migrant labor system; was facing its end; and by long, the final. The migrant labor system which was devastating African communities as it saw the migrant labor in place. But for now it was also a time of frustration & dejection. The Boers had, naturally been beaten, but it was clear they were undefeated. There was economic recession and unemployment; for the first time the process of war of a power to the South African seemed as distant as ever. The South African war was felt especially heavily in Natal. In spite of people & opponents of the war were avoided & kept in mind. Tension between whites & blacks worsened: there was lack of an uprising: white armies, manufactured goods were by destroyed: Christian was nearly broken "affair" for the Afrikaners. Into this unstable situation the Natal Govt threw its stick: a poll tax on the colony's natives. It was a provocative move.
